PREAMBLE

On June 5, 2021, NSS Unit in association with the CV Raman Club of Basic Science Department united to observe World Environment Day under the global theme "Ecosystem Restoration." This report encapsulates the day's events—a collective effort to ignite environmental consciousness. Through tree planting, informative workshops, and creative expressions, our academic community explored the urgency of preserving ecosystems. This document serves as a testament to our commitment, aiming to inspire continued action and awareness. Together, we embark on a journey toward a sustainable, balanced planet, recognizing our role as stewards of the environment and champions for the future.

REPORT

The NSS unit in association with C.V Raman club of Basic science department organized a Virtual plantation program on 5th June 2021. Prof. Deepak Shetty, HOD BSH Dept, MIT Kundapur was the resource person. He not only heightened awareness about the imperative need for ecosystem restoration but also instilled a sense of responsibility and activism within the academic community. He shared valuable insights, providing participants with a deeper understanding of their role in preserving the environment. As a part of celebration students were asked to make a video of plantation at their place. Later in the program all video was displayed to show their interest in protecting the environment. Academic dean addressed the audience and shared her views about preserving the environment. Professor Sookshma Adiga hosted the event.
